

PARMENTER & POLSEY FERTILIZERS

POWERFUL & PRODUCTIVE

Always Reliable

When you put Parmenter & Polsey Animal Fertilizers into your fields, they start right off to work restoring the fertility of the soil, and feeding your crops to an abundant yield. But these powerful fertilizers do not stop with that—they keep right at work putting the land in best condition for next year's crops.

That's because they're animal fertilizers, made out of BONE, BLOOD, MEAT and high-grade chemicals. The very thing that ought to be in your fields—natural plant food in its most powerful and productive form.

Animal food is what plants need. It makes the most natural, most sensible and the best fertilizer. And the richest kind of organic food is the BONE, BLOOD and MEAT Animal Fertilizers made by the Parmenter & Polsey Company.

Legend of Hapsburg Castle.
According to legend, the ancient castle of Hapsburg, overlooking the Rhine, was founded in 1020 and was without surrounding walls for defensive purposes, a strange omission in those warlike days. A friend coming to stay at the castle so greatly deplored the absence of the usual defenses that its lord declared that before sunrise on the following morning his stronghold would be surrounded by impregnable walls. Naturally the visitor smiled and did not believe that this thing could come to pass, but in the early morning he was awakened by the lord of the castle, who bade him look out upon the walls. He had kept his promise, but in an unexpected way. Instead of seeing a surrounding wall made of stone, the visitor saw an unbroken circle of the lord's followers, all in their armor and bearing weapons. And it has since been the boast of the Hapsburgs that the family's devoted subjects were sufficient defense in no matter what emergency.

The Senatorial Situation
The state convention has come and gone, without as yet producing any material change in the senatorial situation, if, in fact, there can be said to be a situation. Senator Carroll S. Page has refused to make a formal announcement of his candidacy, basing his position on the fact, as he sees it, that in 60 years no United States senator from Vermont has made such an announcement, the tradition being firmly established, as he believes, that the senators from this state shall be returned to Washington during their good behavior.

This is his principal argument for being returned to his seat in the Senate. Having been placed on good committees, being almost proverbial as to punctuality and diligence, being entitled to important committees when the republicans return to power and being on the "right" side of the state may be said to be his chief appeals for re-election, and it cannot be denied that they are important and material considerations.

To relieve any uneasiness, it may be said, definitely and flatly, that Senator Page is a candidate, has been for some months and is actively engaged in propagating his interest as best he can. His occupancy of the "Governor's suite" at the State convention, the contiguous location of many of his friends on the same floor and the continual reception which he held during the convention gathering, his 6000 letters to constituents and the activity of the newspapers which are usually rated as Page organs all points in one definite direction and preclude any possibility of doubt as to his desire to succeed himself.

Some editors have referred to the "reception" which the Senator received when he entered the state convention. Extremely proper and to be expected. It would be strange, indeed, if a gathering of Vermont republicans, full of patriotism and enthusiasm, should not enthusiastically cheer the man whom they have honored with the highest office in their gift. Naturally, such a reception is gratifying to any sensible man, but it is not conclusive.

Reporters and editors who mingled with the crowd heard a great deal of Gates talk. Given the same chance, there is very little doubt about the sort of reception the present Governor would have received, had he entered alone and at the psychological moment. The Herald believes that he also is a candidate.

Why should he not be? He will never be more popular than at present. He has a ready-made organization that is the envy and admiration of many more experienced politicians. He is supposed to have a following, particularly in the "back towns," that cannot be equalled by any announced candidate. He would be agreeable to certain interests that need federal friendship. That he has the desire is also not to be contradicted.

Why should Governor Gates not be a candidate? No reason whatever, except one of fitness, and those who might urge that the Governor is not yet ready for promotion need only be referred to recent charges that Senator Page himself does not measure up to the standards of Morrill, Edmunds and Proctor.

Former Governor Fletcher has made no announcement, but the product of his literary bureau in Ludlow shows that he is at least ready to defend himself, and has an assortment of shrapnel, noxious gas and liquid fire that seems to mean modern warfare. Furthermore, those argus-eyed editors who make a practice of scanning the political horizon for signs of strife declare boldly that the lines of his trenches are already being traced and that process of excavation may begin at any time!

So far, Senator Page has the advantage of the situation. A man in office is hard to beat. Tradition goes a great way, and the mountain rule would be heartily involved so far as Mr. Fletcher is concerned, but The Herald has a notion that Vermont is about to the incumbent to be prepared.—Rutland Herald.

Bennington's "Do" Spirit.

There was a remarkable incident at Bennington this week, the breaking of the sod for the erection of the Henry W. Putnam memorial hospital. The son of Bennington's benefactor came from New York to witness the initiation of the enterprise, and he came unostentatiously. The president of the board of trade knowing that he was in the village conceived the idea of having some exercises in connection with the breaking of ground. With the co-operation of the telephone company a really wonderful piece of estemporé advertising was done, nearly all telephone subscribers being notified of the event. The upshot of the matter was that between a thousand and fifteen hundred people were present at the impromptu exercises. It exemplified the "do" spirit of the executive of the board of trade and also the wonderful possibilities of the telephone.—Rutland Evening News.
